

British and American English vocabulary exercise

When it comes to vocabulary, there are very many differences between British and American English. Each sentence given below contains an italicized word. That is the keyword you have to look for. State whether the keyword is in British English or American English.

1. What is the dialling code for London?

British English

American English

2. Turn off the faucet when you are not using it.

British English

American English

3. That's it. Can I have the check?

British English

American English

4. She has bought a flat in upmarket London.

British English

American English

British and American English vocabulary exercise

5. Have you got a torch?

British English

American English

6. Put the garbage in the bin.

British English

American English

7. This car runs on petrol.

British English

American English

8. He had black pants on.

British English

American English

9. His nasty remarks made me angry.

British English

American English

British and American English vocabulary exercise

10. Who invented the zipper?

British English

American English

Answers

1. British English

2. American English

3. American English

4. British English

5. British English

6. American English

7. British English

8. American English

9. British English

10. American English