

How to combine two or more simple sentences into a single compound sentence

A simple sentence has just one clause. Two or more simple sentences can be combined by the use of coordinating conjunctions. Common coordinating conjunctions are: and, but, or, yet, nor, for, so, as well as, not only...but also.

Harry is smart. Harry is handsome.

We can combine these two sentences into one in several ways.

Harry is smart and handsome.

Harry is both smart and handsome.

Harry is smart as well as handsome.

Harry is not only smart but also handsome.

More examples are given below.

He is slow. He is steady.

He is slow but he is steady.
