1. I would like to tell you something. (After would like, would hate, would prefer and would love, we use infinitives, not gerunds.)

2. I prefer staying / to stay in bed. (After prefer, both infinitives and gerunds (-ing forms) can be used with the same meaning.)

3. I would prefer to read. (After would prefer, we use infinitives.)

Gerund or infinitive exercise

4. I am not accustomed to working / work under pressure. (Accustomed to can be followed by an -ing form or an infinitive.)

5. He doesn't drive fast because he is afraid of crashing. (Afraid of is followed by an -ing form when we are talking about the fear of something happening by accident. In other cases, both infinitives and -ing forms are possible after afraid of.)

6 He is afraid of telling / to tell her what he really thinks about her.
