Talking about things you want to do and you want others to do

Talking about things you are interested in doing

I would like to + (verb)

The structure I would like to is used to talk about things you are interested in doing.

I’d like to become an actor.
I’d like to learn the guitar.
I’d like to be the next President.
I’d like to buy a big car.
I’d like to invite them to the party.
I’d like to meet the manager.
I’d like to get some rest.
I’d like to take a look at the house.

I would like can be followed by a noun. This structure is used to talk about things we would like to have.

I’d like some tea.
I’d like some rest.
I’d like an answer.
I’d like some advice.
I want you to + (verb)

This structure is used to tell someone that you would like them to do something.

I want you to go home. (= I would like you to go home.)
I want you to leave now.
I want you to stop now.
I want you to do the shopping.
I want you to do the dishes. (To do the dishes is to wash them.)
I want you to cook dinner.
I want you to learn your lessons.
Talking about things you want to do and you want others to do

I want you to help me.
I need you to has a similar meaning.

I need you to study harder.
I need you to explain your decision to me.
I need you to help me.